

All Day Long He Flew

Brian Mountford

Swallow

$\bullet = 156$

dreamily

mf All day long he flew,

Rehearsal

mf mp

Swal.

poco rit.

and at night-time he ar-rived at the ci-ty.

Swal.

A $\bullet = 72$ with aristocratic chirp mf "Where shall I put up?" he said, "I hope the town has made prep-a-ra-tions." Then he saw the Swal.

stat - ue on the tall col-umn. "I will put up there," he cried; "it is a fine po-si-tion

18 B

Swal. with plen-ty of fresh air. So he a - light-ed just be-tween the feet of the Hap-py Prince.

21 increasingly drowsy $\bullet = 60$

Swal. mp "I have a gol-den bed-room," he said soft-ly to him-self as he looked round, and he pre-pared to go to sleep;

24 C senza misura $(\bullet = 72)$ wide awake

Swal. mf but just as he was put-ting his head un-der his wing a large drop of wa-ter fell on him.

27 $(\bullet = 60)$ $(\bullet = 72)$

Swal. "What a cu - ri - ous thing!" he cried, "there is not a sin - gle cloud in the sky,

Swal. 29 $(\bullet = 60)$

the stars are quite clear and bright, and yet it is rain-ing. The cli-mate in the north of Eu-robe is real-ly dread-ful.

Swal. 31 $(\bullet = 54)$ wistfully $(\bullet = 72)$ snapping out of it

The Reed used to like the rain, but that was mere-ly her self-ish-ness."

Swal. 33 $(\bullet = 72)$ exasperated $(\bullet = 84)$

Then an-oth-er drop fell. "What is the use of a stat - ue if it can-not keep the rain off?

triangle

Swal. 36 $(\bullet = 72)$

I must look for a good chim - neypot," and he de-ter-mined to fly a-way. But be-fore he had o-pened his wings,

All Day Long He Flew

Swal. $\text{♩} = 60$

39 triangle

a third drop fell, and he looked up, surprised and saw - - - Ah! what did he see?

mp

p

Swal. $\text{♩} = 92$

42 [E]

The eyes of the Hap-py Prince were filled with tears, and tears were run-ning down his gol-den cheeks. His face was so beau-ti-ful in the moon-light that the lit-tle Swal-low was filled with pit-y. "Who are you?" he said.

Swal.

45

Swal. $\text{♩} = 54$ $\text{♩} = 60$

48

"Why are you weep - ing then? You have quite drenched me."

Prin. slowly

mp

I am the Hap-py Prince.